WARBURG, FDR ADVISOR, HITS MONEY POLICY

New York Financier Says Currency Can Not Be "Managed"

Philadelphia, Nov. 23 —(AP)—President Roosevelt's monetary goals of controlled inflation and a dollar of constant purchasing power have a new but "reluctant" opponent in James P. Warburg, who has been looked upon as unofficial economic advisor to the Chief Executive.

In a surprise address at the American Academy of Political Science, the New York banker expressed doubt last night that such a dollar is possible and said he did not believe "there is any such thing as controlled inflation."

"What I reluctantly oppose," he told an audience that jammed the grand ballroom of the Bellevue-Stratford hotel, "are some of the methods by which the President seeks to attain his goal, some of the misconceptions that seem to cloud his purpose and the disregard of the accumulated experience of centuries manifested by all too many of his advisors."

By his unexpected stand Warburg, who was financial advisor to the American delegation to the world economic conference, aligned himself with Dr. O. M. W. Sprague, recently resigned special advisor to the Treasury who has embarked on a campaign to arouse public sentiment against the administration's monetary program.

Warburg also revealed for the first time that he had resigned from the delegation to the economic conference after receipt of the President's message espousing a dollar of fixed purchasing power. He kept his resignation secret, he said, "hoping of being able to convince the President that it would be a mistake to continue his policy of monetary uncertainty and experimentation."

Up To Latent People
Continuing his attack, Warburg declared he is opposed to controlled inflation "even if, contrary to history, it does not become uncontrolled," and he asserted it is "up to the latent majority to let the President know that the American people are ready to face whatever suffering there may be in a slow, orderly process of recovery."

Warburg also disagreed with the monetary views of Prof. Irving Fisher of Yale University and United States Senator Elmer A. Thomas of Oklahoma, both of whom spoke at the same meeting.

Senator Thomas expressed himself "as much opposed to inflation—the improper, excessive and over-issue of either currency or credit—as any money-changer in Wall Street."

Defending the gold standard, subject to modernization, Warburg said he could not picture the savings of the people flowing through the normal financial banking and investment structure "on the basis of a currency which it will take generations to understand."

"You cannot trust what you cannot understand," he added.

Part of Cargo of Beer Disappeared After Truck Was Wrecked at Rainbow Inn Corners West of City Last Night

Harold Wrigley and Clarence Jacobson of Lee were cut and bruised when the truck in which they were riding turned over and was practically demolished last evening about 5:30 on the Lincoln Highway west of Dixon at the Rainbow Inn corners. Wrigley was driving west and as he attempted to make the curve in the road, claimed that an east bound truck forced him off the road. The truck turned over and was practically demolished, its load of bottled and draught beer being scattered along the highway.

TWO FREIGHTERS COLLIDE IN NEW YORK BAY TODAY

One So Badly Damaged It Was Near Sinking For Time

New York, Nov. 23 —(AP)—Two freighters collided in lower New York Bay shortly after midnight today, leaving one so badly damaged that for a time it was feared she would sink.

The damaged vessel was the Ohioan of the American-Hawaiian Line, inbound from Seattle. The other was the Liberty of the Cosmopolitan Line, which had just cleared for Baltimore and LeHavre. The Liberty struck the Ohioan amidships and tore a huge hole in her side. The vessel started to sink and Coast Guard boats which rushed to the scene removed all the members of the Ohioan's crew except the Captain and the radio operator.

Several hours later, however, the Ohioan was beached on what is known as West Bank Shoals, and the crew returned to the ship. Coast Guardsmen said she was in no immediate danger unless a storm came up.

The Liberty, which received only minor damage to its bow, remained at anchor near the scene of the crash until daylight permitted a thorough inspection.

The Ohioan's crew numbered 43 and the Liberty's 37. The captains of both boats reported no one was injured.

Borden Co. Gives Authorization to Improve Property

An additional CWA project for Dixon was assured this afternoon when Mayor George Dixon received a telegram from Walter Page, former Dixonite and one of the heads of the Borden Co., authorizing the city to improve several acres of land on the north river bank, west of the I. C. bridge, which will provide an extension to the high school park. The project has been approved by the federal authorities and consequently it is thought a crew of men will be put to work there within a few days.

Mr. Page's telegram intimated the Borden Co. contemplated conveying title to the property to the city.

Leaders Of Northern Illinois Hold Enthusiastic Meet

Over 400 Republican leaders from sixteen northern Illinois counties met in DeKalb Wednesday afternoon to discuss plans for the campaign next year, and after taking stock of conditions were convinced the party will sweep the state and the country at large when the voters go to the polls in the spring and again in the fall.

Julius L. Johnson of Aurora, vice-chairman of the Republican State Central Committee, presided at the meeting.

John F. Tyrell, Chicago, chairman of the managing committee of the state central committee, congratulated the assembled party leaders on the enthusiasm shown at the meeting and outlined the work of the state committee since the party went down to defeat at the last elections.

With the groundwork already laid for a strong showing next year, Tyrell said, the G. O. P. organization will function as a whole, not as a minority group of party leaders.

"A Solid Front"
"We're pledging you a solid Republican front in Cook county," declared Chairman Tyrell. "We have determined to clean up the CCC, etc., we should adopt the slogan: 'SOS, PDQ, GOP'." Schwaner, Springfield, secretary of the state managing committee.

Regrets that they were not able to attend the session were received from Franklin J. Stransky, Savanna, chairman of the state G. O. P. Central committee and Oscar E. Carlstrom.

Every District Represented
Practically every member of the legislature from the congressional and senatorial districts in northern Illinois was present at the meeting. County judges, newspaper publishers, precinct captains and county chairmen made up the rest of the gathering with a score of prominent women G. O. P. leaders.

More than thirty representatives were present from the Thirteenth district which includes Carroll, Jo Daviess, Lee, Ogle, Stephenson and Carroll.

Officers Named: Registration Of Unemployed On Saturday

Chicago, Nov. 23 —(AP)—First payday to civil works administration workers was called off today as Illinois officials found themselves backed in work.

The workers, recruited from the state's unemployed, were to have been paid next Saturday night. Their county representatives were told in a telegram from Robert Dunham, chairman of the Illinois Emergency Relief Commission, that checks would go out to the workers "as soon as possible."

"Due to the tremendous task of establishing procedure," Dunham notified the county officials, "checks to CWA workers can not be mailed on Saturday. We are working day and night to rush payment."

The workers may be given relief rations while they wait for their checks, Dunham informed the county officials.

At the city limits they ordered him to stop, relieved him of the wheel and bound his wrists with wire. Then drove at breakneck speed to Decatur, hiding their identity by avoiding bright street lights and keeping their hats pulled down and collars turned up.

The doctor was not mistreated, and when the highway men dropped him at Decatur they promised him he would recover his car, which is insured.

POSTAL SAVINGS OF PEOPLE USED BY GOVERNMENT

Are A Part Of Revenue Roosevelt Is Buying Bonds With

Washington, Nov. 23 —(AP)—Pyrotechnical debate failed to develop indications of a change today in the administration's monetary policy as Henry Morgenthau, Jr., new Acting Secretary of the Treasury, prepared to talk over latest developments with President Roosevelt.

Morgenthau leaves tonight for Warm Springs, Georgia, to keep an engagement tomorrow with the President. The gold-buying plan will be discussed thoroughly.

No authoritative official here had forecast whether the decision at Warm Springs would be for continued administration silence or a counter move-offensive to meet that set off by Dr. O. M. W. Sprague's resignation and criticism of the policy as leading to "unrestrained inflation."

Talks of "Fight"
Some consideration was given here to Roosevelt's speech last night in which he talked of fighting the "powerful," the "intolerant" and the "obstinate" for the things which we believe to be right. There were intimations at Warm Springs that steps would be taken soon to aid silver.

Two things were awaited with particular interest meanwhile: the price fixed today for RFC purchases of domestic gold which was left unchanged from yesterday at $33.76, and the Federal Reserve Board's weekly statement late today of government bond purchases in the last seven days.

Sprague, in resigning as Treasury adviser, argued that gold-buying depreciated government bonds, and that if this were continued federal securities could not be sold, making necessary the issuance of new currency to meet running expenses.

Use Postal Savings
Morgenthau disclosed that money deposited with the Treasury from postal savings, Farm Credit Administration, Federal deposit insurance and debt sinking fund sources were being used to buy government bonds, supporting their price. The law specifies that this money be invested in government securities. That will be done through the federal reserve bank in New York.

Last week purchases by all Federal Reserve banks with their own funds were $2,000,000 as against an average of $10,000,000 for the several weeks immediately preceding and about $36,000,000 just before that.

Yesterday, the administration disregarded criticisms of its policy, continued buying gold and left the price at $33.76 an ounce, the same as the day before.

Sprague Gets Ally
But the word battle, over gold and the much talked of commodity dollar, continued. The latest to align himself with Dr. Sprague was James P. Warburg, heretofore, at least, a participant in many economic discussions with the president.

In Philadelphia, Warburg, a banker, said he must express "reluctant" opposition to "some of the methods by which the President seeks to attain his goal, some of the misconceptions that seem to cloud his purpose."

At the same meeting of the American Academy of Political Science, Professor Irving Fisher of Yale, held the President's money policy "substantially right." The objective, he continued is "stabilization but not stabilization relative to gold nor in terms of foreign exchange."

Senator Thomas (D., Okla.) drafter of inflation legislation remarked at that meeting too that he was "much opposed" to "improper" inflation "as any money changer in Wall Street."

Sprague was out of the Treasury today. One of the last things he told newspapermen was that he had "hardly anything at all" in the way of monetary problems referred to

Bound For Arizona
When Wynkoop left Chicago he was bound by motor car with Stanley Young to take advertising photographs in the Arizona cleft of the Grand Canyon. Air line officials in Kansas City reported that he had made reservations to return from there last night, but he failed to arrive.

Young was taken into custody by Kansas City police early today and was quoted by them as saying that he and Wynkoop had spent last Monday and Monday night at the home of Young's uncle, George E. Q. Johnson, former Federal District Attorney, of Chicago, and left for the west the next morning by way of Beverly Hills, a Chicago suburb, continuing toward Kansas City via Peoria, Ill.

"All indications," said Captain Stege, "point to the slayer as a person in which Mrs. Wynkoop had full confidence."

Possible Reconstructions
"We are studying two possible reconstructions of the murder. In the first we suppose that the young woman was induced to disrobe and go on the operating table. While she was in that position the slayer placed her under an anesthetic,

Husband of Slain Young Woman Returns; Denies Knowledge of Murder

Chicago Officers Are Still Mystified In Wynkoop Case

Chicago, Nov. 23 —(AP)—Earle Wynkoop, handsome young widower, came back today to the gloomy old mansion where his pretty wife had been shot to death and acknowledged, Prosecutor John M. Long, announced, that he had been unfaithful to her.

Cool, unruffled, the young man snapped back the answers to questions flung at him by police and Assistant State's Attorneys.

Of the killing itself he gave no clue.

Chicago, Nov. 23 —(AP)—Shortly after Chief of Detectives William Shoemaker declared "some member of the household" was the killer, Earle Wynkoop, 27, surrendered to police today and denied any knowledge of the operating room murder of his wife, Rheta, 23.

Hunted by police of several cities since his pretty, young wife was found shot through the heart on a surgical operating table, young Wynkoop walked through an alley to the home of his mother, Dr. Alice Lois Wynkoop.

Denied Identity
Police who arrested him said Wynkoop first denied his identity but admitted it when confronted by neighbors. Hatless and carrying a heavy suitcase, he was taken to the Fillmore street police station for questioning.

Police Capt. John Stege soon afterward announced Wynkoop had made a categorical denial of any knowledge concerning Rheta's death. Stege quoted Wynkoop as saying he first learned of the tragedy in Kansas City yesterday.

Chief of Detectives Shoemaker asserted that chemists and detectives had turned up evidence which "practically established" that Rheta was shot to death after partaking of the Tuesday evening dinner at the Wynkoop home and that "the murder was committed by someone in the household."

Chemical Examination
The chemical examination of the contents of the young woman's stomach, he said, divulged undigested cabbage—an item in the meal which Dr. Wynkoop, her mother-in-law, and Miss Enid Hennessey have said they ate at 6 o'clock the night of the killing.

Dr. Wynkoop and members of her household were virtual prisoners overnight in the old mansion. At was the scene of the bizarre murder in her surgical operating room. They had been released from police custody, but two officers were stationed in the home throughout the night.

Had Life Insurance
In addition to the $5,000 life insurance policy taken out by Dr. Wynkoop on her daughter-in-law Nov. 14, another policy for $1,000, also carrying a double indemnity, was found today. The Commercial Life Insurance Company informed Corner Frank Walsh it had issued the policy Nov. 2 with Earle Wynkoop and his sister Catherine the beneficiaries.

Dr. Wynkoop herself was beneficiary of the $5,000 policy on the life of the slain woman.

No direct accusations however were made by the police against Wynkoop. In fact, Captain Stege said, young Wynkoop appeared to have a sound alibi. His detention for questioning was ordered after Captain Stege said he had been informed that he was in Chicago up until a few hours before his wife's body was found in the faded brick sixteen room mansion on West Monroe street.

Dr. Wynkoop said he had been in Chicago for questioning were ordered released by Captain Stege.

Barograph Check Shows Stratosphere Balloonists Reached New Record Ceiling of 61,237 Feet; Old Mark 53,153 Ft.

Washington, Nov. 23 —(AP)—A calibration of the barometer carried by Lieut. Com. Settle in his stratosphere flight showed the balloonists had ascended 61,237 feet.

Ray Cooper of the NAA said that although the Soviet stratosphere balloonists had claimed a height of more than 62,000 feet, to U. S. S. R. was not a member of the Federation Aeronautique Internationale, and that no official proof of their height was held by that international organization.

Murder Baffles Chicago Police

A bullet in the back ended the struggle of Mrs. Rheta Wynkoop, 23, above, against a mysterious assailant, and her body was found on an operating table in the basement office of her mother-in-law, Mrs. Alice Lindway Wynkoop, prominent Chicago physician. The gun, lying on the table, was the only clue left for police.

turned her half way on her face and then fired a bullet into her back.

"Our other theory is that the young woman was seized in some other room of the house, chloroformed or other mask was thrust over her face, and then, while unconscious, she was carried or dragged down to the basement."

Dr. Wynkoop's office is in the basement of the home.

An examination of the woman's body, the Captain said, revealed a small abrasion on her left knee, which he thought indicated she might have been dragged. There was a scratch on each cheek which the investigator indicated he believed might have been caused by an anesthetic mask. A chloroform mask was reported found by the police in the surgery.

Swift Development
Developments came swiftly in the weird death drama over night. Among them was a statement attributed to Dr. Wynkoop by Captain Stege that she had procured the $5,000 life insurance policy for her daughter-in-law as a kindly use to persuade the girl that as she had passed the company's physical examination, there was no need for her to worry about her health, which previously had been bad.

A theory by Police Lieutenant Otto Erlanson that the young wife might have been wearing clothes at the time she was slain other than those found near her body, led to a search of the furnace, but Captain Stege said that a small amount of blackened lumps found there had apparently come from coke, used prior to the installation of an oil-burning apparatus.

Other Developments
Other developments were: A report by police that they had discovered a button on the floor panel of the brick coach house, which, when pressed, revealed a secret entrance.

A statement by Burdine H. Gardner, of Indianapolis, a flour and salt broker, that he had disapproved of his daughter's marriage four years ago to young Wynkoop.

All persons who had been detained in Chicago for questioning were ordered released by Captain Stege.

FED. RESERVE COUNCIL GIVES OUT WARNING

Its Advisory Council Foresees "Untold Loss to Masses"

New York, Nov. 23 —(AP)—The Federal Reserve Board has warned the Roosevelt administration against "a currency of fluctuating value."

The resolution, adopted in executive session yesterday, and made available to the Herald-Tribune in authoritative quarters, follows:

"While the council is in sympathy with the general purposes of the administration, it believes these are not to be accomplished by a currency of fluctuating value."

"The members of the Advisory Council believe:

State Beliefs
"1. That a higher price level is beneficial only if accompanied by higher natural income, and that can only be brought about by increased employment.

"2. That a depressing and fluctuating currency value will not adjust discrepancies in the price level.

"3. That as long as there is uncertainty in regard to the future value of the monetary unit there can be no lasting or fundamental improvement in business.

"4. That this uncertainty tends and has tended to depress the market price of government securities and corporate and municipal bonds, which in turn has affected and will continue to affect adversely the entire economic structure and thus stand in the way of recovery.

Difficult Financing
"5. That unless there is monetary stabilization it will become increasingly difficult for the government to finance its large commitments for reconstruction purposes and to refinance its maturing obligations. The resulting uncertainty will especially affect and cause great uneasiness among the millions of wage earners, savings depositors and holders of insurance policies. It will further diminish the flow of capital into the investment field, and it is this money which is used largely for the purpose of financing the production of capital and durable goods. It is in these fields that unemployment has been most difficult to overcome. The existing uncertainty has already caused capital funds to leave the country to be invested in foreign securities and deposited in foreign banks.

"6. That no monetary standards can be finally and permanently satisfactory until other important nations have taken similar action and that such international action is extremely improbable on any other than a gold basis.

Means Untold Losses
"7. That history shows that the further currency inflation goes, the more difficult it becomes to control and that it invariably results in untold losses to great masses of the people and the ruin of national credit.

"In view of the opinion above reported, the Federal Reserve Council believes that in the re-establishment of our currency basis on gold it may well be coupled with safeguards to be agreed upon by international action."

The members of the Advisory Council and the districts represented by them are:

Thomas M. Steel, Boston; Walter F. Frew, New York; Howard A. Loeb, Philadelphia; H. C. McEl-downey, Cleveland; Howard Bruce, Richmond; John K. Ottley, Atlanta; Melvin A. Traylor, Chicago; Walter W. Smith (president), St. Louis; Theodore Wold, Minneapolis; W. T. Kemper, Kansas City; Joseph H. Frost, Dallas; Henry M. Robinson, San Francisco. Walter Lichtenstein is Secretary.

With the provision that the two policemen be kept in the Wynekoop home to keep the family "under surveillance." Those released included Dr. Wynekoop and Miss Enid Hennessey, a school teacher who rooms at the Wynekoop residence. Previously three others were permitted to return to their homes. They were Mrs. Harvey Woods of Joliet, a sister of Dr. Wynekoop; Miss Frances Woods, Mrs. Woods' daughter; and Mrs. Woods' sister-in-law, Miss Jessie Woods.

Story Verified

Dr. Wynekoop was quoted by police as saying she found the body when she went to the surgery to get some medicine for Miss Hennessey when the latter complained of having stomach pains.

Former Judge Johnson verified the story told Kansas City police by his nephew, Young, saying that he and Earle Wynekoop had spent last Monday night at his home and left at 10:30 o'clock Tuesday morning, the day of the murder, on their trip to the southwest.

But, he said, he was puzzled as to the meaning of the telegram received by Dr. Wynekoop from Peoria, Ill., and signed "E." It was supposedly from her son, and read "Stanley had domestic trouble. Left this (Tuesday) morning instead. Arrived tonight."

"Stanley isn't married," Johnson said.

COUNTY'S CWA ORGANIZATION IS COMPLETED

Welfare station on Hennepin avenue.

Neil Reagan, who has been acting as county auditor for the welfare organization, has been appointed district representative of the Federal Reemployment Bureau, his territory including all counties of the Thirteenth congressional district and DeKalb county.

J. E. Reagan, who has been in the service at the county relief headquarters for several months has been named certifying officer for the relief rolls.

Reports today indicated a total of 218 men working on projects under the supervision of the state Highway Department, the city of Dixon and the Dixon state hospital.

Those coming under the unemployment classification and not registered on the township relief rolls will be required to register at the central county office in Dixon and as other projects are approved and provided, these will be taken according to the rules of the county organization.

The second county project, the major one of the two decided upon by the road and bridge construction department as well as the federal department, as soon as the necessary application blanks are available from the Chicago offices, it was stated today. It is the general plan to provide sufficient employment within the next three months to relieve the townships, insofar as is possible, from keeping the unemployed on the relief rolls.

County Superintendents of Highways Fred Lenke this afternoon announced the approval of Lee county's work relief project, No. 1, which provides for 25,000 man-hours of brush cutting and ditch cleaning in the various townships to start Monday morning. In this program it is expected that the county's proportion of the unemployed now on relief rolls totaling 109 able bodied men will start working seven and one-half hours daily at a wage scale of 50 cents an hour.

To complete final details of the program, the various supervisors and highway commissioners of the several townships have been called to attend a meeting at the court house Friday afternoon at 1 o'clock. All of the men who will be accepted on this project will be residents of townships outside of Dixon and Amboy, who will be given first preference. In the event that the number reporting is not sufficient, however, the balance will be taken from these two townships.

Commissioners of highways of the various townships will direct the operations and the general work relief program will be under the supervision of County Superintendent Fred Lenke.

COMPENSATION

By Helen Wehshimer

HEY stand at doors and wait those quiet women, who have few tasks beyond the rooms they keep; they watch the road for one man's ease coming—and in their eyes, unfathomed, strangely deep, stir dreams that Eve perchance surprised in Eden. When first she learned through self-inflicted fate, that men ride out at dawn to win new battles, while women keep the hearths bright, clean—and wait.

So often I have seen them silhouetted, deep-breasted, eager-eyed, serenely gay while back of them the rhythm of the firelight, through tapestry on rooms where children play, strange how a man outlines a woman's pattern. How all her tasks are journeyings to meet. The one she loves, when it is dusk and evening hangs yellow lamps along the waiting street.

Comedy Emmert School Friday Eve

TOO DEEP FOR US.

Of all the peculiarities of the NRAs and the AAAs, to us the most peculiar peculiarity is the prohibition against the cash and carry milk stations selling at a price under that in the house delivery system.

When the public attention is called, as it frequently is, to the spread between what the farmer receives and what the consumer pays, the explanation always is that cost of delivery is so high. It must be apparent to all that there is a considerable economic waste in a system by which four or five drivers cover the same streets, yet each family is entitled to its own preference in purchase of milk.

The cost is there, whether it be waste or not. As a means of cutting cost and paying more to the farmer and charging less to the customer, men familiar with the business created a system of cash and carry in Chicago. If the consumer would walk or drive for his milk supply he could receive an allowance for his effort in the transaction and the farmer could receive an equal or higher price than under the delivery system and the man at the milk station could make a living. All hands were agreed upon the price, which was lower than for house delivery.

Codemakers or somebody from Washington put a hand in the affair and said they can't do that. The cash and carry customer must pay as much as the customer who has delivery at his door.

With so much that is bewildering everybody from the financiers and their economists down, one more bewilderingment probably isn't important, but it is probable that a bewildered public never will be clear on that point.

If price-fixing is going to be undertaken in the milk industry, it might be that it should end at the deal with the farmer. If a price were fixed for the producer a fair base could be established, from which every dealer could have an even start.

ANOTHER NOBLE EXPERIMENT ONLY.

Secretary Wallace of the department of agriculture went out to Des Moines, the seat of government of the state where farmers strike, play hob with highway traffic and burn railway bridges, and charge that the NRA is doing them more harm than good.

The secretary made a creditable speech in his own state. Then he went to Chicago and displayed some temper. He read an editorial from the Chicago News and indicated inability to take the criticism.

Not having been born yesterday, the chiefs of the present democratic administration should not expect to be able to turn all order and system of the country topsy turvy and to get out without criticism. There seems to be a peculiar notion hovering over Washington that nobody should criticize the administration. Just where they get that, we do not know. Certainly it does not come from any treatment accorded the last administration by the members of the present administration.

When President Roosevelt entered office the banking situation had reached a crisis. The country withheld judgment lest it do something that would impair confidence and render matters worse. It withheld judgment while congress was in session and a program was being formulated.

Newspapers and public men have no further occasion for withholding judgment because of fear that criticism would react upon the confidence of the country in its institutions or because of fear of economic disturbance. If this country can stand the earthquake that has been thrown into it by the Roosevelt administration, newspaper criticism can not hurt it.

Mr. Wallace should remember that in presenting the farm program to congress, President Roosevelt stated in unmistakable language that it is an experiment and that if it fails to work he will be ready to abandon it.

Certainly the time has not come when the people of this country can not criticize a thing the President warns is only an experiment.

POLITICS BARRED.

The vast civil works program recently put forward by the administration, under which it is planned to put 4,000,000 men to work before Christmas, is the most ambitious program of its kind ever attempted by any government.

Rightly handled, this program can be of inestimable value. By the same token, it can become a horrible thing if party politics is allowed to be entangled with it.

The slightest suggestion that the directors of the project were trying to gain political advantage from it would be fatal.

It is not so much how a nation works as how it plays that determines its future.—Dr. Paul C. Stetson, superintendent of Indianapolis schools.

War is biological—or glandular if you will.—Dr. William E. Lower of Cleveland.

Daily Health Talk

PELLAGRA

Pellagra, a disease fairly prevalent in certain parts of our country, was first observed among the Indians as long ago as 1600.

Since the earliest days of its discovery, the disease pellagra has in some way or other been associated with Indian corn. The first theory advanced to explain pellagra held that the pellagra sufferers had eaten spoiled maize or corn, which contained a toxic substance.

Subsequently, as our knowledge of nutrition advanced, we discovered that different proteins found in different foods did not all possess the same nutritional value.

Since maize lacks certain elements known as amino-acids, this conception was an explanation of the relation between the eating of maize and the development of pellagra.

Still later, when we discovered vitamins, it was quite natural to charge pellagra to the absence of an essential vitamin, and in fact there is a vitamin called vitamin B-2 which is designated as the anti-pellagra vitamin.

But despite much experimental work, even our latest explanation does not completely solve the problem of pellagra.

There is much about the disease that does not fit into the scheme of the so-called deficiency conditions. Thus, it is seasonal in severity, varies from time to time, subsiding and recurring in peculiar cycles, it is not contagious and it appears to attack only persons living on an inadequate diet.

Still, infection may be a contributing factor in the development of pellagra, for a defective diet and particularly a diet lacking in vitamin A leads to deterioration of the lining membranes of the respiratory and digestive tracts. As a result, bacteria find it easy to penetrate these linings and to invade the body.

Pellagra therefore may be due not to any one specific factor but rather to a number of factors, including an unbalanced diet.

Miners Challenge
Board's Authority

Springfield, Ill., Nov. 22.—(AP)—The authority of the National Labor Board which has attempted a settlement of the Illinois coal field controversy, has been challenged by Claude Percy, president of the Progressive Miners of America.

In a statement issued last night Percy said he and his associates had been unable to find where the board, which functions under the NRA, had jurisdiction to investigate and determine "controversies of this character."

The big can soon was rolled up to the Tinymites. "Well, hurray for you!" exclaimed wee Goldy with a smile. "Now, what do we do next?"

"The Star Man promised a surprise. One that would open up our eyes. I suppose the can is part of it. My, my, but I am perplexed!"

"The big surprise is in the old can," replied the friendly old Star Man. "Now, push the head of it so it is pointing off this side."

"Then we will pry the lid right out. What happens, then, will make you shout. A very strange sight you will see before you, after while."

The can was swung around just right. "Now, I will pull with all of my might and off will come the monstrous lid," cried wee Scouty. "I am strong!"

He pulled and pulled, and then pulled some more, and then he heard the Star Man roar, "Hey, someone else please help him. It is taking him too long."

So Windy put his hands to use, and soon cried, "Now it's coming loose." With one more jerk, they pulled it free. Then came a brilliant shower.

A lot of stars flowed from the can. Up near to them the Tinymites ran. "Watch very closely," said the Star Man. "They will flow for about an hour."

"And then what will the small stars do?" asked wee Dotty. "This is something new." The Star Man laughed and said, "You will soon know what it is all about."

"You'll note the stars form in a line. I have trained them, and they are doing fine. They'll drift across the sky as soon as every star is out."

At last the stars all were on

MILK FUND MAT AND RING CARDS HELD LAST EVE

Boxing and Wrestling Fans Were Well Entertained

A good sized crowd attended the athletic show, sponsored by the Dixon unemployed organization for the purpose of securing a fund for the purchasing of milk. Last evening at the Ottawa avenue arena, boxing fans were convinced that some of the participants there were some apparently excellent boxing material being developed locally. Some of the boxers who were announced on the program did not appear, but there were plenty of other bouts to provide more than a full program of entertainment. Jack Sharkey did the refereeing of the fist affairs and probably had the hardest workout of the evening. "Buck" Foley of Rochelle was the third man in the ring in the wrestling affairs.

The feature event of the program was a novelty bout in which Paul Ardinnini of Rock Falls boxed and Joe Woods of this city wrestled. The contest went ten minutes with Woods being unable to pin the boxer's shoulders to the mat. Ardinnini wriggling out of several close positions and managing to crawl out of the ring. Woods insisted that the match continue and it was agreed to permit the pair to continue for another five minutes. When the pair got together the second time it required but one minute for Woods to floor his boxing opponent and win the interesting match.

One Match Forfeited
Frank Schermerhorn of Rochelle forfeited the match to Mickey Barefield, who was responsible for the program, after six minutes of punishment inflicted by the local grappler in what was scheduled to be the best two out of three falls in a wrestling bout.

Wildcat Elliott of DeKalb took two straight falls from Dave Reynolds of Mason City, Iowa, to win the feature mat match of the evening. The first fall went 17 and one-half minutes before Elliott secured a double arm-lock which had his opponent calling to the referee to call the fall. It required but 90 seconds of the second round for Elliott to pin Reynolds' shoulders to the canvas with a combination head and arm lock.

All of the boxing matches were exhibition affairs with no decisions being rendered. Charles Smith and Don Nestor, two local ten-year-olds provided the curtain raiser and stepped three one-minute rounds. Billy Jones and Virgil Close furnished a thriller in a three-round slugfest in which Jones appeared to be the better of the two boys. Donald Wolf, a very promising newcomer in the squares, circle, sent too many gloves in Kenney Adams' direction in the first round and Referee Jack Sharkey called for the next bout. Cliff Flanagan and Lyle Pritchard were cautious in their bout but both demonstrated some fine actions in the first public ring appearance. Oscar Smith won the applause of the fans as he boxed with George Lawson and Smith was another who was shifty and clever in the ring on his first appearance. Glenn Rutherford and Lyle Klapprodt furnished one of the fistic thrillers of the evening in the 135 pound division. Rutherford sailed along in the first and part of the second with a decided edge in his favor but Klapprodt showed his wares in the final round and gave his opponent plenty of amusement.

Joe and Tony Buberick, brothers, furnished the comedy bout of the evening which closed the boxing program of the show. There was plenty of entertainment with these two sluggers lunging and feinting and landing some hard wallops.

MINNESOTA HAS CLAIM ON SHARE OF CHAMPIONSHIP

Gophers Will Not Concede Title To Michigan Wolverines

Chicago, Nov. 23.—(AP)—Just because Northwestern was liberal eight years ago and conceded the Big Ten football championship to Michigan means nothing to Minnesota.

If the Gophers, who have won only one game and tied four in conference competition this fall, defeat Wisconsin in their final game Saturday, they will claim a share of the Big Ten title even if Michigan does wind up its season with an expected triumph over Northwestern, which would give the Wolverines a record of five victories, no defeats and one tie. Should Minnesota beat Wisconsin and Michigan lose to Northwestern, the Gophers won't be a bit shy about claiming the undisputed championship.

"If Michigan and Minnesota both finish undefeated," commented Frank McCormick, Minnesota's Athletic Director, "neither one can claim the title from the other. I don't know that we can do anything about it."

Break All Records
Since the Gophers outplayed and held the Wolverines to a scoreless tie last Saturday, Minnesota fans and students have been militant in their demands that the Gophers claim a share in the title and not concede as Northwestern did in 1925. In breaking all conference records for tie games, the Gophers have engaged in deadlocks this fall with Indiana, Purdue, Northwestern and Michigan.

Illinois and Ohio State, who meet at Columbus in another important final game Saturday, also eyed a mathematical chance to win the title, hoping Michigan and Minnesota would lose so the winners of their game could claim the title with a record of four victories and one defeat. Purdue's only hope was a defeat for Michigan and Minnesota, and a tie between Ohio State and Illinois, which would give the Boilermakers a share in the crown—it they beat Indiana.

AROUND THE BIG TEN
Minnesota's invalids are well again and will be ready for Wisconsin. The Badgers are improving and reports are out that a special defense to stop Pug Lund has been invented. Duane Purvis' right arm is virtually out of commission, but he is expected to play against Indiana. Fullback Wendell Walker and Godbold, end, are on Indiana's injury list. Ollie Olson, Northwestern's star kicker, appears to be definitely out of the Michigan game because of his shoulder injury. "Bear down" is Michigan's watchword. Ohio State is building a pass defense for Illinois. The Illini are worrying about the possibility that Ten Schustek, right end, will be forced out of the game after a bad bumping in the Chicago contest. Iowa is keeping fullback Dick Crayne and Bud Schammel, star guard, out of practice to prevent recurrence of injuries.

ANDERSON LETS RAMBLERS TAKE EASY WORK OUTS

Thinks Rest May Get Results Against So. California

South Bend, Ind. Nov. 23.—(AP)—Coach Hunk Anderson is about convinced that what Notre Dame needed all season to provide a scoring punch was rest.

The week prior to the Northwestern game, the Ramblers didn't engage in one scrimmage because of a consistent downfall of snow and they responded by flashing impressive power to defeat the Wildcats. So far this week, during the preparation for Southern California's invasion, they have had only one scrimmage and that's all they are going to have.

"It looks like the Trojans are too strong for us," said Hunk. "But we're going to be ready to give them the best battle we can. All the boys are in fine shape, rested and crazy to play that ball game."

Ticket sales soared around the 40,000 mark today and a host of political and film notables wired for reservations.

MIDSHIPMEN AT ANNAPOLIS ARE MAKING SLOGANS

Their Definition Of NRA is "Navy Run Army": Others

Annapolis, Md. Nov. 23.—(AP)—NRA means "Navy Run Army" to the Midshipmen of the United States Naval Academy, as they look forward for the game Saturday with the Cadets in Philadelphia.

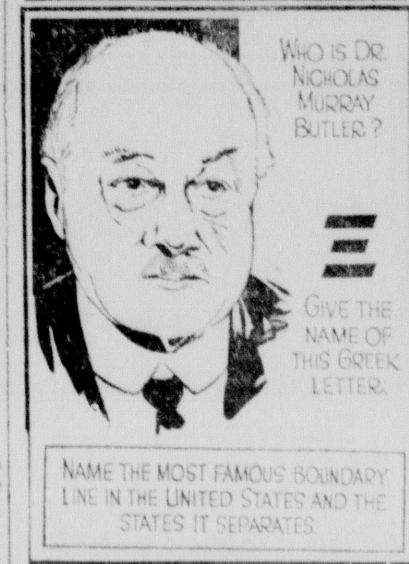

Inside the entrance of Bancroft Hall, the Midshipmen's dormitory, hangs a large banner showing the blue eagle, with an anchor in one talon and a football in the other, and underneath the slogan "We'll do our part."

A huge golden "N" and star and captions "This is our year" and "Beat Army" appear with the eagle.

In the corridors are samples of the Midshipmen's handiwork, all sounding a note of defiance to the Army. In the rooms are slogans on pieces of paper and blotters, conveying the same sentiment.

One large drawing shows a charging Navy goat, butting an Army mule with the slogan "Ready in the butts", a phrase used on the rifle range to signify the targets are ready for firing to begin. Opposite the mule is a disconsolate-looking Irishman, who has just been butted, representing Notre Dame's 7 to 0 defeat by Navy. The Navy goat predominates in

CHANGES LIKELY IN HIGH SCHOOL FOOTBALL PLAN

Athletic Director A. C. Bowers Contemplates Changes

Athletic Director A. C. Bowers of the Dixon high school is anticipating many notable changes in the football program for 1934. For the first time, it is probable that the purple and white will play at least one game of night football on an electric lighted field, this being with Preepert on the latter's gridiron. Director Bowers is at present negotiating with the Preepert high school athletic department for such an exhibition game.

Provided that the Alumni Varsity tilt is to be continued next season, it is expected that this game will undoubtedly be the curtain raiser of the season, instead of being played at the close of the conference schedule.

The annual Rock Falls-Dixon game is another added feature to the regular conference schedule and it is quite probable that this will be played about the middle of the season, on an open date, instead of as a curtain raiser as was the case this year. It is also quite possible that the Dixon-Amboy game will be discontinued, according to reports today.

Centralia Trial's Murder Truth May Reach Jury Today

Carlyle, Ill. Nov. 23.—(AP)—The case of Dan Blanks, Centralia musician, charged with manslaughter in the death of his brother, Ishmael Blanks, Nov. 22, 1931, was expected to reach the jury in Circuit court here late today.

Dan Blanks denied from the witness stand yesterday that he killed his brother. The defense contends Ishmael committed suicide.

The defendant was convicted of manslaughter at his first trial but won a new trial.

Farmer Kills His Nephew and Self

Brink's mother, Mrs. Ignatz Brink, a widow, saw her son slain. Brink was slain in his home in Pilot Knob township, eight miles south of Nashville. A short time later, Kamadulski's body, a bullet wound behind the left ear, was found a mile from the Brink home.

ACQUISITION OF HAFEY BY CUBS SEEMS ASSURED

That's What Psychological Reporter Tells Paper's Readers

Chicago, Nov. 23.—(AP)—Hot on the trial of reports that the Chicago Cubs were going to get "Chick" Hafey from the Cincinnati Reds in a big deal, a baseball writer decided to employ some psychology.

As he was confronted with details of such a deal, the writer observed with a twinkle in his eye: "It's probably just as well that you haven't bought Chick. In addition to being troubled with bad eye sight, he is reported to have horrible miseries in his stomach, incurable bunions, water on the knee, and warts."

"Oh, no!" interjected John O. Seyes, vice-president of the Cubs. "All those ailments have been fixed up. I personally investigated and find that during the last half of last season, he enjoyed the best health of his life. Outside of an occasional little touch of sinus trouble, he's in perfect shape. Hafey unquestionably is one of the greatest right handed hitters in baseball and there never was a man who could outthrow him."

So the reporter went back to his office and told his readers not to be surprised if the Cubs get Hafey.

LOUGHRAN WINS AFTER UNUSUAL CIRCUMSTANCES

Commissioner Reverses
Referee In New York
Garden Ring

New York, Nov. 23—(AP)—With the aid of one of the most surprising actions ever taken in a New York ring, Tommy Loughran, the veteran boxer from Philadelphia, has demonstrated that the young giant, Ray Impelliere, isn't ready to become a heavyweight title contender yet.

The big moment of the battle, which otherwise was mostly a demonstration of Loughran's well known boxing skill, came in the sixth round. A right uppercut caught his mouth and cut it badly. Referee Pete Hartley wasted no time about halting the proceedings. After one look at the stream of blood pouring down Loughran's chest, he raised Impelliere's hand in token of victory.

At this point General John J. Phelan, chairman of the New York State Athletic Commission took a hand. Fighting his way through the howling crowd of 3,000 to the ringside, he ordered the fight continued.

No one at the ringside could recall a similar situation in which a commissioner had overruled a referee. Tommy was patched up between rounds and promptly lit into his oversize opponent and never stopped punching until the fight ended.

The "Imp," however, showed surprisingly sound boxing form. He jabbed his long left at Tommy's face, used his right uppercut well at times and made the Philadelphia open up with every bit of his best boxing to get anywhere.

Loughran weighed 185 3-4 pounds, Impelliere 255 1-2.

WEEKLY SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

PAUL IN CORINTH

By WM. E. GILROY, D. D.
(Editor of The Congregationalist)
What Athens was in the culture and philosophy of the ancient world, Corinth was in its general prosperity. It was called "the eye of Greece," and "to live as they do in Corinth" became a byword in the ancient world for luxurious living in a sophisticated and prosperous society.

Here, inevitably, in its conquest of the Grecian cities, the gospel must make its way. It was notable for the fact that Paul paused in his journeying to and fro long enough to have at Corinth a period corresponding to some modern pastorates though much more intense and crowded in its relative shortness.

The marks of this deeper ministry of contact and influence are evidenced in the fact that the two epistles to the Corinthians are much the longest that we have of Paul's writings, and give us with much detail the most intimate picture that we have of conditions in the ancient church.

In Corinth, the divisions over matters of doctrine and concerning matters of practice became very marked. A great deal will be found in the Epistles concerning questions of conduct, answering the perplexity of these early Christians, as to just what the new faith implied in pagan surroundings.

Here in our lesson, however, we have set before us the divisions that were of a somewhat personal nature. This church at Corinth had been fortunate in the distinguished leaders who had either lived there or spent some time with the church, and the result was that these leaders tended to develop followers.

Inasmuch as the leaders represented somewhat different viewpoints and emphasis, the tendency was toward the breaking up of the church into divisive sects or groups some saying, "I am of Paul," others, "I am of Apollos," and others, "I am of Cephas." For some even Christ had become the head of a party, and they were saying "I am of Christ."

Paul meets this situation very determinedly and yet in excellent spirit. He challenges these Christians regarding the unworthiness of their divisions. He asks them "Is Christ divided?" Was Paul crucified for them or were they baptized in the name of Paul.

He even rejoices that he had baptized only a few, lest anybody might say he had baptized in his own name. He lays emphasis that beneath all differences of opinion is the gospel of the Christ calling upon men to live together in love and righteousness.

Paul reminds them that the test of the Christian way is not found in outward expressions of wisdom or in flowing words, but in the realities of the faith. It is the power of God that saves men. It is the power of God that transforms their lives and makes them worthy to be in the Christian Church.

Men should seek that power above all things and should give their lives over fully to the influences of redemptive love, rather than take pride in any achievement of their own or in any assumed superiority to their fellow-men.

The topic of this lesson for intermediates and seniors, is given as, "How to work with others." That is a good expression of the practical meaning of the lesson for us all. It is very necessary to learn if men would in any sense fulfill the will of God, for we are all God's children, and in our relationships in life we are all subject to His will, whether or not we acknowledge it.

It is strange that, with such plain words as Paul has spoken and with the example of this discussion in the Church of Corinth before us, the Christian Church throughout its history has been so marred by divisions and strife. Even those who have professed a common faith, and purpose in Christ have often displayed the greatest unwillingness to work together or the utmost incompetence to do so in any practical way. It is the neglect and failure of this essential privilege and duty that makes a lesson like this so important, and that makes it so necessary that we should return to it again and again.

be interested in my explorations in Little America.

The Scribe: Indeed, Mr. Bundy: Long before Byrd's trips to the South Pole I conceived the idea of exploring that region by means of an airship. As a result, I had made a huge dirigible larger than any you've seen.

The Scribe: But why does none know of this dirigible?

Mr. Bundy: I kept it well covered. To continue, I flew from the United States to the people in record time. Soaring over that region, I dropped showers of calcium chloride over Little America. This chemical melted the snow and ice, and enabled me to examine the tundra in a most thorough manner.

The Scribe: And what did you find?

Mr. Bundy: The melting work completed, I landed to look about on foot. The land is barren and worthless, except that there are great deposits of diamonds there. Or, rather, there were great deposits. I brought the material back with me.

The Scribe: I have enjoyed the fireside chat. It reminds me of the radio fireside chats we now hear so much about.

Mr. Bundy: Another note, Boswell. I originally expounded the idea for those informal talks.

Everyday Religion

HOW DO YOU SAY IT?

By Dr. Joseph Fort Newton

An Eastern king asked his vizier to interpret a dream that came again and again. The vizier listened while the king told his dream, and replied: "O King, your dream unfortunately means that every relative of yours will die before you, leaving you the lone survivor of your family."

The king was so enraged at such a prediction of bad fortune that he ordered the vizier beheaded; and it was done. But the dream kept recurring and the king was troubled by it. He selected a new vizier and asked his interpretation. The new vizier, knowing the fate which had befallen the first one, replied: "O King, it is a happy dream!

Some kindly spirit is trying to tell you good news. It means that you are a very fortunate man; you are destined to outlive all your relatives." The King was so pleased with this happy reading of his fortune that he gave high power to the vizier, and doubled his salary. Both viziers gave the same interpretation of the dream, but one made it bad news and the other good news. It was a difference in fact, of insight, of point of view, and perhaps of tone of voice. It all depends on how we say a thing. One can say almost anything, if one puts in place of the man he says it to.

"When you say that, smile," said the Virginian in the Owen Wister story, to a man who had called him an ugly name. The smile took the sting out and kept it from being an insult. The mere change of inflection in the tone of voice can carry either happiness or misery into the heart of another, and spoil a day.

Of course we must tell the truth, and some truth, no matter how softly spoken, is unwelcome. But we leave too many hurts and scars by forgetting that the human voice is like an organ on which we can play harsh notes, or haunting notes, echoing our spirit and our moods. Our gentle words are the only words we do not regret. (Copyright, 1933, by the United Feature Syndicate, Inc.)

Felt Hungry All the Time, Nervous, Couldn't Sleep; "Gly-Cas Action Miraculous," Declares Mr. Eades.

"It was a miserable ten years I put in before I began this new Gly-Cas," said Mr. J. E. Eades, 214 Graves Street, Chillicothe, Mo. "Would get clear down for two and three weeks at a time. Had an awful gnawing in my stomach and become terribly hungry but everything I would eat would come right up. Couldn't hold anything on my stomach. My kidneys got me up nights, too, and was unable to get my sleep and rest, nervous, and my whole system seemed to be out of order. But this Gly-Cas action was miraculous in taking hold of my stomach case. My stomach and kidneys were regulated almost at once. Able to eat what I want for the first time in years without any ill effects afterwards sleep fine and feel like a new person. Yes, Gly-Cas is wonderful."

Gly-Cas is sold by Campbell's White Cross Pharmacy, and by all leading drug stores in surrounding towns.

Prodigy at 8

She's the nation's newest prodigy, but Ruth Slenczynski, the eight-year-old pianist whom New York's hard-boiled critics acclaimed after her debut there, isn't a bit affected by her rise to fame. A native of California who has received all her training from her father, the young celebrity showed this childish smile when the cameraman came for her picture. Below is a closeup of her small, stubby fingers which she hopes will make her "the best pianist in the world."

Don't Get Up Nights

Lax the Bladder With Juniper Oil, Buchu, Etc.

Drive out the impurities and excess acids that cause irritation, burning and frequent desire. Juniper oil is pleasant to take in the form of BUKETS, the bladder laxative, also containing Buchu leaves, etc. Works on the bladder similar to castor oil on the bowels. Get a 25c box from any drug store. After four days if not relieved of "getting up nights" go back and get your money. If you are bothered with backache or leg pains caused from bladder disorders you are bound to feel better after this cleansing and you get your regular sleep. Rowland Pharmacy says BUKETS is a best seller.—Adv.

The UNKNOWN BLOND

By Laura Lou BROOKMAN

BEGIN HERE TODAY
Who killed TRACY KING, orchestra leader found dead in his apartment?
DAVID BANNISTER, author, former newspaper reporter, undertakes to find out. Police are searching for an "unknown blond," known to have visited King shortly before his death. Bannister has seen this girl, who told him her name was JULIET FRANCE. She swore she knew nothing of the murder, but she has disappeared again.

HERMAN SCURLACH, who wrote King a threatening letter, is in jail. He also declares his innocence.

Bannister works on the case with J. RANDOLPH GAINES, star reporter of the Post. In the dead man's apartment Bannister picks up an old-fashioned wedding picture and keeps it as a possible clue.

Gaines and Bannister decide to go to see DENISE LANG, King's fiancée.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY CHAPTER XIII

THE door of the restaurant opened suddenly and a man came in. He was a young man of average height, rather squarely built. He wore a light tan topcoat, and tilted down over his eyes, a derby hat. The young man saw Bannister and hesitated. Then, rather deliberately, he marched to the cashier's desk.

"Wanna cash this check?" he said in a voice that carried clearly.

The reply of the young man at the cash register did not reach Bannister's ears but evidently it was not in the affirmative.

"But I wanna cash this check!" the newcomer repeated louder, more heatedly. He went on, as the cashier hesitated. "Say, wherza manager this dump? Lemme talk-ta the manager! He'll do it for me, all right, all right. He knows me. Everybody 'round here knows me! I'm a customer. Wharza idea—insulting a customer? Say—"

A dozen heads had turned to see what the commotion was about. The embarrassed cashier was explaining. "But I'm sorry. It's against our rules to cash checks for anyone. I'd be glad to do it for you but it's against the rules."

"Lemme talk-ta the manager!" the newcomer demanded, brandishing the check and pounding the counter for emphasis. "I demanda see the manager!"

"He's not here," the cashier said. "Mr. Locke just stepped out of the building."

It was Gaines who interrupted. He touched the newcomer on the arm. "Excuse me," he said quietly, "aren't you Mr. Drugan? Al Drugan?"

The other backed off, eyed him severely. "Certainly I'm Al Drugan. Who wants t'know? Don't believe I have the pleasure of your acquaintance."

"No, you don't know me, Mr. Drugan," Gaines said pleasantly. "but I was trying all morning to get in touch with you. This is a piece of luck for me!"

Drugan waved him aside impatiently. "Luck has nothing to do with it!" he proclaimed oratorically. "Nothin' whatever! Fact is I came in this re-saunt—"

He stumbled over the word, repeated. "Fact is I came in this re-saunt to cash a check." Again he brandished the bit of light blue paper. "I demanda see the manager," he exclaimed turning to the cashier.

"But Mr. Drugan—"

Bannister had joined the group. "If the gentleman wants to cash a check maybe I can do it for him," he said. "What is the amount?"

"Five dollars," the newcomer said. "Five dollars an' sixty-five cents!"

Bannister had pulled a wallet from his pocket, was counting out the change. "Here you are," he said, smiling, and handing over the amount. "Five dollars and sixty-five cents. Now if I can have the check—"

"Why certainly! Certainly!"

The sight of the money seemed to dissolve all of Drugan's troubles. He stepped forward, put his hand in Bannister's and grasped it firmly. "Pall," he exclaimed. "You're my pal!"

Bannister returned the handshake. "O.K., Drugan," he said. "I'm your pal, too, Drugan. Gaines put in eagerly. "Come on, let's be on our way."

Before the befuddled Drugan thoroughly understood the situation all three of them were outside.

It was a side street, not brightly lighted, and a cold wind had come up. As the sharp air smote his cheek and blew open his topcoat Drugan drew back, protesting.

Gaines said easily, "Come on, Drugan! Where you bound for? We'll see that you get there."

The musician straightened. "Listen," he said, "you think I'm drunk, don'tcha? Well, I'm not. Just had a drink or two. Just a couple little ones. If a fellow who's been through all I've been through in the last day and night isn't entitled to a couple little drinks—"

"Why, what have you been through?" Gaines asked innocently.

"Don'tcha know! Amazement made the words more an exclamation than a question. "Don'tcha know what happened last night? I thought everybody knew. Don'tcha know about Tracy King? Found 'em dead—the best pal a fellow ever had. Dead, like a dog, that's how I found 'em. Shot down. Tracy King was the finest friend I ever had. There'll never be another one—not like ol' Tracy!"

For a minute the other two thought Drugan was going to burst into tears. Then they understood it was the cold wind and not over-wrought emotions that had brought the moisture to his eyes.

Neither Bannister nor Gaines were topcoats. Bannister, stamping to warm his feet, said, "Let's get going! Can't we get a cab around here somewhere?"

Gaines said, "Suppose we walk along with Drugan. I'd like to hear more about his friend." He turned, addressing Drugan. "Why, that's terrible!" he said. "You mean Tracy King, the orchestra leader who was killed last night, was a friend of yours?"

"Best friend I'll ever have," Drugan said mournfully. "Shot down like a dog."

"And you say you found him—the body I mean?" Gaines persisted.

Drugan hadn't said precisely that but he agreed, nodding. "Terrible thing!" he exclaimed, closing his eyes as if in pain, then opening them instantly. "Never forget it as long as I live! Terrible!"

COMPTON NEWS

By Faye Archer

Compton — The Compton Athletic Club will open its current season with a double-header against Shabbona at the local gymnasium Tuesday, Nov. 28. Coach Ott, who has taken the place of Bill Archer as coach of the club's two teams has been working hard to polish his team on several new plays to be used in the initial tilt of the newly formed Tri-County independent basketball league. The starting lineups will be chosen from the following men: Cletus Chaon, Wellington Chaon, Mario Olson, Frank Bohart, Wayne Archer, Wendell Mirley, Lloyd McDougal, Edwin Kuhn, Leslie Archer, Charles July, Max Burley, Floyd Beemer, Donald Archer, Walter Archer, and Walter E. Ott. Two squads will be placed on the floor by Shabbona and Compton. The first team will take the floor in the newly purchased suits, a black suit trimmed with a bright red Compton's second team, widely known as the Bears will appear in the blue and red suits used by the club in former years. Manager W. Chaon has announced that he has scheduled all home games for his club, the same being displayed on brightly colored signs posted about town in prominent places for the convenience of the fans of the club.

The rangy Franklin Grove team easily defeated the short Compton squad 28 to 8 in a game there on Friday. Franklin Grove featured an overhead passing attack built around Zoeller which was beyond the capabilities of the Compton boys to solve. The local squad put up a game fight, but it just wasn't their night. Thursday night, Nov. 23, Compton will try its hand against Coach Horn's Rolo squad in the local gym. This will be the only home game for the high school team before the holiday season.

The M. E. Ladies Aid annual bazaar will be held Thursday, December 7, in the church basement. A 5:30 supper will be held followed by music by the Sunday school orchestra. There will be the usual apron, fancy work, and candy booths, with the addition this year of a "white elephant display" in which various articles for which people have no further use will be offered for sale.

The "Go-Getters" section of the M. E. Aid will hold a ten-cent tea at the home of Mrs. H. F. Cook. Following the recent organization of the boys in the Intermediate Room, the girls have now formed a club called "Junior Girls." Many good times in the future are anticipated.

The movies announced last week for the school gym will be shown Friday afternoon at 2:30. These are films on scientific subjects and are shown for the benefit of the physics and science classes. The public is welcome for the showing is free to all.
